Empower

THE COMMON RULE

We are shaped by the company we keep and the habits we form. That is why it is vital to be intentional about determining our close friends and our cornerstone habits.

The author Justin Whitmel Earley wrote a book called The Common Rule, where he offered a helpful guide for loving God and our neighbors.

Consider the domains below:

LOVE OF GOD

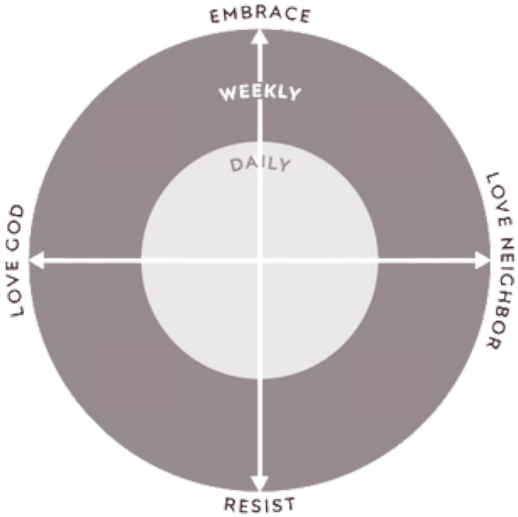

Another way to look at the habits is as they pertain to love of God. You were made to love and be loved by God. Only in light of this love will you see who you really are and discover what to do with your days.

LOVE OF NEIGHBOR

When we think of better habits, we often think about our own self-improvement. In the Common Rule, these habits are meant to be practices with others for their sake.

EMBRACE

Embrace is a reminder that there is much good in the world God made. We want to be intentional to take advantage of it through regular rhythms.

RESIST

When we practice resistance, we acknowledge that evil and suffering are very real, and not how the world was meant to be. The purpose of resistance is to love; not shield you from the world, but turn your compassion towards it.

Now spend time creating a Common Rule for yourself to more intentionally love God and others in this season. Share this with some friends and determine how you would like to hold each other accountable.

THIS TOOL IS MEANT TO BE SHARED. Adapted from The Common Rule by Justin Whitmel Earley.

This journal was made by the University of Arizona Navigators staff in 2020, with the latest update in 2025, and is meant to be shared. Please do not reproduce for profit.

For reproduction, corrections, suggestions for improvement, or to request a digital copy please email Ryan Mullarkey at ryan.mullarkey@navigators.org