

BECOMMING A SERVANT

Is it more important to be a leader who serves, or a servant who leads? What would you say are the differences?

Jesus says in Mark 10:45, "Even the Son of man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many." In the verse before this, Jesus tells his disciples that in order to be first, they must be the "slave of all." Jesus not only spoke of serving others, but demonstrated through His own life what a servant looks like. Jesus modeled that serving others is something that must come out of our identity as who we are (i.e. a servant), not simply something we occasionally choose to do.

Spend time reading through John 13:1-17 and discuss the passage together. Then take time on your own to read the article "What Made you Cross" and consider the reflection questions.

What Made you Cross

Questions for Reflection and Evaluation:

1. What example challenged you the most / made you the most uncomfortable?
2. Where in your life do you notice yourself living to be served rather than to serve?
3. Where in your life, by God's grace, have you seen yourself genuinely serve someone else without the expectation of being served?
4. What does it look like for self to die and Christ to live today?

This journal was made by the University of Arizona Navigators staff in 2020, with the latest update in 2025, and is meant to be shared. Please do not reproduce for profit.

For reproduction, corrections, suggestions for improvement, or to request a digital copy please email Ryan Mullarkey at ryan.mullarkey@navigators.org