

IDENTITY IN CHRIST

Who are you? What makes you, you? What do you want to be known for? What are you seeking after? These are questions most of us will wrestle with in life. In a lot of ways, how you answer will determine what "living" looks like for you.

But who does God say you are? And why does that even matter?

ISAIAH 45:8-12

Read and make observations on the pot and the maker. (Tip: look at multiple translations for better understanding.)

_____

_____

3 main takeaways:

1. God made us
2. He did it on purpose
3. As Creator, He defines our identity which then determines our purpose or what we live for.

Let's look at a Bible character and see how she would answer the questions we observed above:

JOHN 4:1-30

Read and make observations on her identity and desires and how Jesus addresses them.

_____

_____

Key Questions and Answers from this Story:

Who is she?

- Outcast, Samaritan, unloved or even unlovable.

What is she seeking after in life?

- Belonging, love, to be fully known and still completely loved.

How does Jesus respond?

- He essentially says, "I already know you and love you completely and I will satisfy all your desires. Just come to me." He offers her a better identity and true satisfaction.

What does it cost her to get what Jesus offers her for identity and satisfaction?

- Everything! Her current identity and ways to be satisfied need to be replaced. She can't be "outcast, (rest of list)" any more and she can't keep looking to others to satisfy her. She must find that in Jesus.

What does this mean for us?

God asks us to give up our identity and desires because He offers something better and more secure. Is this something you want? What would it take for you to trust God with all of yourself?

For more verses on who God says you are and what purpose He has for your life, scan the QR code.

This journal was made by the University of Arizona Navigators staff in 2020, with the latest update in 2025, and is meant to be shared. Please do not reproduce for profit.

For reproduction, corrections, suggestions for improvement, or to request a digital copy please email Ryan Mullarkey at ryan.mullarkey@navigators.org